

Access Records Management is one of Sydney's premier records storage and retrieval services meeting the requirements of a broad range of industry sectors in Sydney. In our effort to meet the Company's targets and remain a successful business, we are mindful of the importance of the environment. As such, our aim is to manage our operations so that we minimise the impact on the environment. Our environmental commitment extends to our storage facility and employees, our transport and retrieval services and our surrounding environment.

Accordingly, we are committed to:

- complying with all applicable local and national environmental legislation including relevant provisions for energy management and our carbon footprint;
- preventing pollution, particularly that associated with air emissions, and waste production;
- participating in industry specific and other environmental improvement initiatives;
- conserving energy resources and responsibly managing procurement of consumable materials and their use;
- developing and maintaining an Environmental Management System based on the ISO14001 standard, that will enable us to document, monitor and continually improve our overall performance from an environmental viewpoint; and
- Working with our clients, suppliers and other key stakeholders, to offer environmentally responsible and aware partnerships that ensure our initiatives have maximum impact and benefit to all.
